
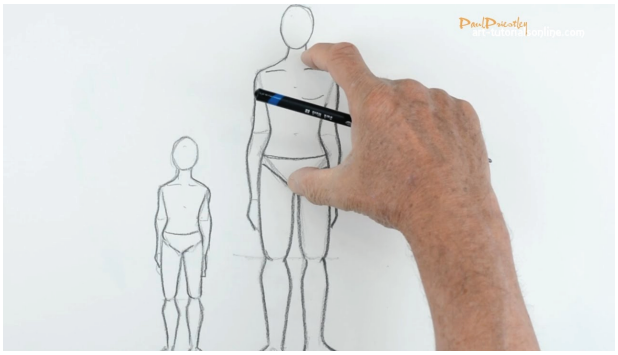
Goal: Using color pencil, create a portrait that utilizes color and form tocreate a mood or evoke an emotion in the viewer.



Applying past knowledge:

*use your knowledge regarding proportion in order to best represent the subject. Use measurements to maintain scale. (Is there an eye 'width' between the eyes? How 'long' is the nose compared to the forehead?)

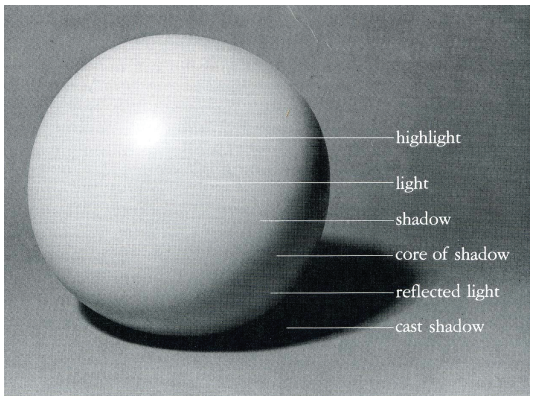
*use your knowledge of value to emphasize form and dimension. Dark values = shadows Light values = highlights *use your knowledge of color to emphasize depth. Cool colors recede, warm colors project.



Think about your thinking....

*Pick a mood or emotion. Think of words that describe this emotion - verbs or adjectives. How can you visually display those words in your portrait? What is needed? Does your subject and color choice clearly convey those words?
